

2008 Ben Quilty Chardonnay

THE LABEL

Evo#1 2011
B-Q-117

Ben Quilty has been painting portraits of his mates as part of The Evo-Project. This series is about big, rough men and references the mis-evolution of the subject.

This portrait is of Ben's very good friend, Phil 'Evo' Evans, who provided the inspiration for this series. The intensity and darkness of the image is presented in contrast to the surrounding clean space.

Ben's agent Jan Murphy says, "using bold and unsettling subjects, Quilty explores the problematic relationship between the personal and the cultural."

This label attempts to present the problematic relationship between the brutish Australian man and the inner beauty of the person; between the external label and the inner beauty of the wine.

WINEMAKING

In 2008, winemaker Clare Halloran experimented with a batch of 100% Estate-grown Chardonnay. Normally singled out for the Estate wines, this batch was set aside, fermented in barrel and left to sit for an additional six months, resting on the yeast lees extracted from the 2008 Reserve Chardonnay wine. This additional time has created another layer of complexity to the wine, while still maintaining a refined palate with fresh citrus flavours and hints of nutty creaminess.

With only a small allocation of this wine produced by TarraWarra Estate, it is an exclusive wine with an exclusive label.
